

For CEA Members Only

Member Login (username and password)

Consulting Engineers of Alberta has updated the capabilities of the website www.cea.ca to benefit our members.

Members are not required to have a login with an individual profile, but it has value for CEA to communicate with members of the firms and will assist staff when they are registering for events. All staff of every member firm can have an individual login and profile.

Several individuals will already have a login as information has been transferred if you have been active with the CEA committees and/or ACEC-Canada.

When you log into the updated site, please go through these steps:

Step 1.

Click here to reset your password. Enter your email address and click Submit. The system will send you an email with instructions to update your password.

Email address*

Submit

Note – If you get the message “Unable to find email”: Click here to register, to receive login instructions.

Step 2.

After updating your password (Step 1 above), Click here to login (image below)

After logging in you will see a Members Only Page with a link to update your profile. Please take a minute to review and/or update your profile, this assists CEA to have your most up to date information for communication. (NOTE: No individual profile information will be displayed on the website or any directory). All individual profiles are for internal CEA information and use.

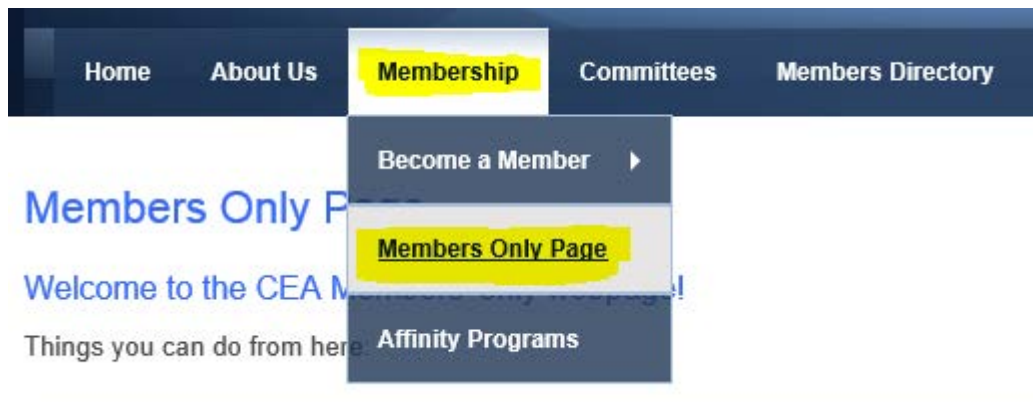

The Consulting Engineers of Alberta will be adding more features, with member specific communication to the Members Only Page (image below) in the future.
